

STEPSTONE OPENS OFFICE IN SINGAPORE

StepStone, a leading provider of on-demand, talent management solutions in Europe, has set up shop in Singapore – the company’s first in Southeast Asia and its second in Asia. Commenting on the company’s entry to Singapore, StepStone CEO Colin Tenwick said, “The strategic location of the Singapore office will allow us to better respond to the needs of the Asian market while simultaneously supporting growth in all functional units.”

With a portfolio of state-of-the-art technology, software and online services offered, StepStone Solutions Singapore facilitates HR management throughout the entire employee life-cycle, especially in areas such as e-recruitment, talent attraction, career and succession planning, performance management, skills and competency management, training and development management, as well as compensation management.

The Singapore office started operations in April this year, with six key employees bringing more than 25 years industry experience to the market. Weng Loong Leong, StepStone’s new Singapore Country Manager, has 13 years experience in the industry. He will be responsible for sales and strategic direction in the Southeast Asian market. 